

Please don't take away our privacy. The inconvenience of answering the telephone only to have someone trying to sell you something is frustrating. My mother is in a nursing home and prone to falling. Of course, every time the phone rings I think something has happened. If I have the need to purchase a product I can make the choice without someone calling and distrubing me.